What We Are Learning in Fourth Grade

Reading - We have begun a unit on Becoming Researchers. Readers are working toward using information presented in different ways and from different sources to demonstrate understanding of a topic.

Writing - Writers use organizational structures, specific word choice, and evidence when explaining a topic. They will be creating their own infographic based on an animal of their choice.

Math - We will be finishing up fractions and focusing on geometry.

Social Studies - Our historians will continue to study Colonial New York.

Science-We will be studying simple machines.
